The lecture will focus on the experience with urban poor housing development and city-wide community upgrading in Thailand and other Asian countries. Emphasis is on the achievements of the Community Organizations Development Institute (CODI) and Asian Coalition for Housing Rights' (ACHR) new regional program on Asian Coalition for Community Action (ACCA). Of particular interest is the success and challenges of networking amongst urban poor and the impact on housing policies and practice.

Somsook Boonyabancha is secretary-general of the ACHR, a coalition of organizations working on urban poor housing development in Asia. She was also former Director of CODI in Thailand.
